EDO CHAIR

Designed by Tommaso Caldera

The Edo chair collection is an ode to traditional craftsmanship. Formed of solid ash, the structure is designed as a frame to which different fabric or leather seat solutions can be attached, making it versatile and suitable for different settings.

Featuring a sleek design inspired by Japanese aesthetics – the chair is named after ancient Tokyo –, it consists of circular-section legs with a tapered profile, while the back, in contact with the body, has an elliptical section that is more pleasant to the touch, which is also a detail with a distinctively simple design.

STRUCTURE

The frame is made of solid ash (wood from well-managed forests) in the colours bleached, stained natural oak and stained black.

The chair consists of circular-section legs with a tapered profile, while the elliptical-section back is a distinctive detail in the simple design.

The legs and crosspieces are interlocking, so that all the elements that define the chair's style are also functional and indispensable to its construction.

SEAT

The seat is made of polyurethane foam and upholstered in fabric, leather or saddle-hide. The seat's fabric/leather upholstery is removable; saddle-hide upholstery is not removable.
